DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

This application contains claims 38 – 43 drawn to an invention nonelected with traverse in the reply filed on 10/27/2006. A complete reply to the final rejection must include cancellation of nonelected claims or other appropriate action (37 CFR 1.144) See MPEP § 821.01.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 18, 19, 56, 57 and 59 – 61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Ershov et al. (U.S. Pat. No. 5,770,721 A) (“Ershov”).

Regarding claims 18 and 61, Ershov teaches an apparatus structure comprising a dispenser chip structure 4 including a dispenser body structure comprising a vertical channel; and a sample chip 1 having a base and a sample structure comprising a pillar 2 and a sample surface, wherein the vertical channel of the dispenser chip is cooperatively structured to receive the pillar 2 (see, e.g., col. 3, lines 6 – 45; figures 1 and 2). Apparatus claims must be structurally distinguishable from the prior art in terms of structure, not function. The manner of operating an apparatus does not differentiate an apparatus claim from the prior art, if the prior art apparatus teaches all of the structural limitations of the claim (see MPEP § 2114).

Regarding claim 19, Ershov anticipates that a means for sealing or adhesion can be provided between the dispenser body 4 and the base of the sample chip 1 that is provided from the application of a bind-silane layer (see, e.g., col. 3, lines 46 – 52).

Regarding claim 56, Ershov teaches that the sample chip structure 1 can comprise glass or silicon (see col. 4, lines 33 – 41).

Regarding claim 57 and 59, Ershov teaches the incorporation of a capture agent comprising immobilized oligonucleotides (see col. 3, lines 5 – 14). With respect to claim 59, the recitation that an analyte is present in the vertical channel in the dispenser chip is considered a statement of how the claimed device is intended to be used.

Regarding claim 60, Ershov teaches the incorporation of 12,000 pillar structures comprising gel material (see col. 5, lines 43 – 45).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 58 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter:

Regarding claim 58, the cited prior art neither teach nor fairly suggest that the dispenser body comprise silicon.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 6/25/2007 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The applicant alleges that Ershov does not teach the claimed apparatus. However, the cited prior art teaches all of the positively recited structure of the apparatus as claimed. Eventhough the structure taught by the prior art may be an intermediate structure as alleged by the applicant, the structure is still disclosed in the prior art. The apparatus claims simply do not exclude the prior art apparatus structure. The Courts have held that apparatus claims must be structurally distinguishable from the prior art in terms of structure, not function. See In re Danley, 120 USPQ 528, 531 (CCPA 1959); and Hewlett-Packard Co. V. Bausch and Lomb, Inc., 15 USPQ2d 1525, 1528 (Fed. Cir. 1990). The Courts have held that the manner of operating an apparatus does not differentiate an apparatus claim from the prior art, if the prior art apparatus teaches all of the structural limitations of the claim. See Ex Parte Masham, 2 USPQ2d 1647 (BPAI 1987) (see MPEP § 2114).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
